Riding To The Top Executive Director Receives Recognition

By Susan Cole

Sarah Bronson, Executive Director of Riding To The Top Therapeutic Riding Center (RTT) in Windham, ME, is the 2019 Region 1 PATH Intl. Credentialed Professional of the Year. PATH Intl. (Professional Association of Therapeutic Horsemanship International) is an international voice of the Equine Assisted Activities and Therapies (EAAT) industry. The organization advocates for EAAT and provides standards for safe and ethical equine interaction through education, communication, standards and research.

Sarah, a physical therapist and life-long equestrian, co-founded RTT in 1993. Nominators Lorena Coffin and Kate Jeton noted, "Riding To The Top has grown to be a leading center due to the unwavering dedication and leadership of Executive Director, Sarah Bronson." Sarah led RTT's transformation from serving a handful of riders seasonally at a leased barn to owning and operating a beautiful year round center located on a 52-acre farm. Today, RTT is northern New England's largest PATH Intl. Premier Accredited Center having provided over 50,000 client visits in its 26-year history. According to former board member and current advisory member, Dr. Candace Platz, "RTT is a grass roots effort involving many people, a true community mosaic. The person who holds the mosaic together is Sarah Bronson."

In addition to being RTT's full-time Executive Director, Sarah is a PATH Intl. Registered Level instructor and PATH Intl. Registered Therapist, providing both therapeutic riding instruction and hippotherapy services helping RTT's clients to improve their health and wellness through equine assisted activities and therapies.

Bronson's award automatically enters her to be considered for PATH Intl.'s larger international award where all regional and international winners compete. The winner will be announced at PATH Intl.'s annual conference in Denver, CO this November.

SPHO Hosts Annual Fun Day

Maine Standardbred Pleasure Horse Organization again sponsored their annual fun day at the Hollis equestrian park as a benefit for Futures For Standardbreds. With a variety of "stations" that included a versatility course, dressage ring, and barrels, course participants could try their skills at any or all.

Standardbreds showed up with FFS alumni attending, as well as horses currently in the program. Miss Maine made her first public appearance with Paige Quilty, Miss Southern Maine Teen. A number of other horses and riders attended, with the majority practicing their dressage skills and trying out the versatility course. We appreciate their support of our event and FFS. Thank you to volunteers and participants that made this a success.

Ride Safely Insurance Coverage

By Louise Lester

Because I have been "in business" with horses for a lot of years, I am very aware of the liability I feel we have as horse owners and having people around our horses. I feel that I have been very lucky in that my barn has been around a long time, and I have had very few horse related accidents by people other than family members. The first truly bad accident was by a boarder working on her own horse. The horse was in crossties and she was picking out his feet. Someone walked by a window and spooked her horse whereupon she was flattened by the horse when he slipped and partially fell on her. She broke a leg, but recovered and was able to ride again. The second was a friend to whom I was showing my horses in the pasture. We never really knew why it happened but she was kicked and ended-up on the ground unconscious. She went to the hospital and ended up in a neck collar for a number of months. In neither case was I contacted by my insurance company or any other, but I feel that I was very fortunate.

I have talked with my insurance agent and she said that usually a person is covered if they are not "in business," which means that as long as they're not receiving remuneration for any horse services, they would be covered. However, if I am accepting payment for boarding someone's horse I wouldn't be covered because I was "in business" even though it had nothing to do with the person who fell off MY horse. To reiterate, if I were taking payment for any horse related service I would not be covered by my homeowners' insurance.

My safety suggestion: Talk with your insurance agent and be sure of how much and what kind of insurance you have.

From New England Equine Medical & Surgical Atrial Fibrillation

By Dr. Ella Pittman, DVM

Abstract

Atrial fibrillation is one of the most common cardiac arrhythmias in horses. A cardiac arrhythmia is an abnormal heart rhythm while normal heart rhythm is called sinus rhythm. Breeds predominantly affected include Standardbreds, draft horses, and Thoroughbreds. Atrial fibrillation is primarily seen in adult performance horses because its effects are usually only seen at higher heart rates associated with exercise. This is because at rest or low speeds, atrial fibrillation does not affect the heart's ability to do its job. The heart can still pump blood well enough to supply the body with adequate oxygen. When the heart rate increases, atrial fibrillation interferes with how well the heart can fill with blood so it pumps less blood into the body. In more formal terms, atrial fibrillation interferes with atrial filling, leading to decreased cardiac output. This is why the most common clinical sign of atrial fibrillation is poor performance.

Heart Anatomy and Physiology 101

The mammalian heart has four chambers. The top two are called the right and left atria. The bottom two chambers are called the right and left ventricles. Oxygen-poor blood flows from the body into the right atrium via the vena cava. The blood then passes through the tricuspid valve into the right ventricle where it then travels via the pulmonary arteries to the lungs. In the lungs, gas exchange occurs so that red blood cells release carbon dioxide and pick up oxygen. The now oxygen-rich blood is transported via the pulmonary veins to the left atrium. It travels through the mitral valve into the left ventricle where it is then pumped into the aorta and into the systemic circulation.

Powering this blood flow is a network of nerves that fire in a coordinated fashion to contract different parts of the heart at different times. The first signal occurs at the sinoatrial node, which sends an electrical signal across the atria to move blood from the atria to the ventricles. This first electrical signal also contacts the atrioventricular node (AV) node, which then fires a second signal through the network of nerves in the ventricles to tell the ventricles to contract. This ventricular contraction closes the valves between the atria and ventricles, the "lub" when you listen to a heartbeat, opens the aortic and pulmonary valves and pushes blood into the body via the aorta or lungs via the pulmonary artery. Afterward, the aortic and pulmonary valves close, producing the "dub" sound, and the heart chambers refill. Then the cycle repeats!

Clinical Signs

Like mentioned above, the most common clinical sign of atrial fibrillation is poor performance. Classically a horse will get to the end of a race and suddenly slow down and/or stop. Other signs include coughing, shortness of breath, and nasal discharge. Sometimes, horses have no outward signs and the arrhythmia is an incidental finding on a routine exam.

Diagnosis

Diagnosis is made by a veterinarian detecting an irregularly irregular rhythm while listening to the heart. Electrocardiogram (ECG), which evaluates and measures electrical activity in the heart, confirms atrial fibrillation. Usually heart rate will be normal. Heart rates can be abnormally high as well, which indicates poorer prognosis.

Treatment Options

Treatment of atrial fibrillation involves returning the heart to normal sinus rhythm. This can be accomplished two ways: pharmacological cardioversion and electrical cardioversion. Both of these procedures take place in a hospital. Before either procedure occurs, an echocardiogram, or an ultrasound of the heart, is performed. This is because atrial fibrillation can cause structural changes to the heart, which is an important prognostic indicator for a horse's response to treatment. These structural changes can be reversed if atrial fibrillation is treated promptly. If present, however, these changes make the horse more predisposed to recurrent atrial fibrillation.

In pharmacological conversion, a medication is given that changes the cell signaling in the atria to return to normal firing pattern. Quinidine is the most commonly used medication but others have been used in refractory cases. Quinidine is usually administered every two to four hours to effect via nasogastric tube due to its irritating effects on the oral mucosa. While treatment is taking place, the horse is monitored closely for conversion via ECG and for adverse side effects.

Electrical cardioversion involves the placement of a special catheter in the right atrial cavity and another in the left pulmonary artery. Local anesthesia (intravenous sedation and nerve blocks) is used to feed the catheters through the jugular vein to their respective locations. Correct placement of these catheters is confirmed by echocardiogram and chest x-rays. The horse is then placed under general anesthesia and the atria is electrically shocked back to correct rhythm. Due to the special equipment and personal training required, only certain universities perform this procedure. Electrical conversion is generally reserved for cases that are refractory to or recur despite pharmacological conversion.

Prognosis

Whether a horse responds to conversion depends on several factors including resting heart rate, duration of atrial fibrillation, presence of cardiac structural changes, and concurrent cardiac disease. In horses that have a resting heart rate of 60 beats per minute or less, have had atrial fibrillation for four months or less, and have a murmur less than grade 3/6 - or no murmur at all - have the best prognosis. They have a 95% success rate with pharmacological conversion. Recurrence occurs in 25% of cases.

Primetime Riders - Are you Listening?

By Sam Morrison CR level IV Clinician, Greene, ME

Think about it, we use all our Centered Riding basics – soft eyes, centering, breathing, and building blocks – which combine to allow grounding, and then we add clear intent. But, how about soft ears? Are you aware of all that goes on around you? Do you really listen? The horse does.

The horse has very acute hearing; much more so than we humans. So how about becoming aware of the sounds in the arena, your horse's hoofbeats, his breathing, the neighbor's dogs barking, turkeys gobbling in the woods, the birds singing, the vehicles going by on the road, or the wind blowing. Horses are very aware of details in what they see and hear. Try feeling and thinking like your horse for a deeper understanding of what and how the horse is seeing, hearing, and possibly reacting to. Sometimes by having this awareness, a deep breath will keep your horse calm and focused on the ride. It can help alleviate any sudden nervous response from the horse.

The horse indicates with his ears, acting like radar, where his attention is and what he is thinking. Tight, tense ears are an indication of mental and/or physical tension. Ears pointed stiffly straight ahead might mean he also has hard eyes as he is listening intently to figure out what he is seeing. It can be an indication of curiosity or of his preparation to panic and flee. Ears pointed softly forward means he is attentive, concentrating on his course or an obstacle. He can have each ear move independently in different directions. He can have one ear back listening to the rider and the other ear listening out the window or listening for sounds along the trail. Ears can be rigid if he is tense, or softly flopping if he is mentally relaxed and physically comfortable.

As a rider, pay attention to all this sound input for better awareness, then let it fade into the background using your clear intent and have a peaceful connection with your horse for a comfortable, harmonious ride.

As an instructor, while watching the rider in view, try becoming aware of the sounds coming from the rider and horse behind you. You can listen to the hoofbeats, for example heavy pounding sounds when the horse is on his forehand and almost no sound when the horse is carrying himself in good balance. You can hear the rhythm of the gaits and the tempo of the beats. The intensity and regularity of each footfall will vary if the basic rhythm is lacking or the horse is unsound. Ears were given to us for a reason, so try to combine soft ears with soft eyes and the other basics while discovering a true unity with your partner, your horse.

Sam and Prince - soft attentive ears combined with soft eyes give the impression of a thoughtful happy horse

Central Maine Team Penning Association (CMPTA) May Show

Article and Photos by Daniel Murphy

Saturday, May 18, started off like just about every other day this Spring...gray overcast skies matched with low temps and a chilly breeze. Not the best way to start off Central Maine Team Penning's beginning of the 2019 season, but with Mother Nature's temper, it could have been a worse weekend. Even though the cool temps and high chances of a rainy weekend kept a lot of riders and fans at home, a large group of determined riders made their way to the little farm in Charleston to take on some of the toughest cattle in New England. New riders and old pros joined together in a 60-second battle of skills vs sneaky stubbornness, as CMPTA riders fought to tame and pen MLF cattle.

The cool temps and mild breeze on Saturday were loved by horses and cattle alike, not so much by all the two-legged creatures, but it did make for some wild and exciting rides during the day. With MLF cattle living up to their reputation, the riders of CMPTA were pressed hard for their wins, with some teams riding right on the edge of winning or taking a dirt dive. And even then, with riders landing on their pride, it was "PEN THOSE COWS" echoing across the ring. Because Team Penners never give up. A tough motto that drove Michelle Meserve, Becky Carey, and Denise Eastman to a hard won first place in the #12 class. Nicole Tripp, Garrett Lambert, and Zach Eaton battled it out for first place in the #9 class. And Ryan Eastman and mother/daughter team of Michelle Kingsbury and Megan Farrell were all smiles with first place in the #5 class.

Sunday brought Mother Nature's mood swing, giving the riders and fans warmer weather, but dumped an endless drizzle over the 3-man 2-gate Round Robin event. Even with the gloomy weather, the show must go on, and it did with Team CMPTA fighting hard in the mud and rain to take home the green backs. Old guard Becky Carey and Diane Reynolds teamed up with new recruit Jade Gianforte for a hard fought and well earned first place in the Round Robin. And as the winning team posed for final photos, the riders headed to their stalls and trailers to clean up, pack up, and make the trek back home, the opening show of the season under their belts.

CMPTA has three more shows coming up for the 2019 season. The next show is June 29 and 30, with shows August 24 and 25, and the final shows Sept. 21 and 22. All shows are held at Maple Lane Farms in Charleston, ME, and start at 9am. Check their Facebook pages for more details. Come join the action and excitement. Flag is up...let's ride.

State of Maine Dressage Association (SMDA) May Schooling Show

By Susan Pendleton

Photos by Robyn Cuffey

Show season has begun! State of Maine Dressage Association (SMDA) launched the 2019 show season with our schooling show at the Hollis Equestrian Park on Sunday, May 19. Our judge for the day was Krista Nordgren (L). Krista lives right here in Maine, and is a recent L program graduate. We were pleased to have her come to our show as she starts her judging career. Our show managers were Kris Gould and Jane Tremlett, and the show secretary was Nancy Smith – a big thank you to these hard-working volunteers!

For the first show of the year, it was a full one. We had a long day with over 65 rides from Intro through Third Level, and including two divisions of Western Dressage. The weather cooperated, and despite some black flies it was a great day with comfortable temperatures and good footing.

We had a special treat during the lunch break; Cindi Spear organized a costume ride demonstration and showed some of the beautiful costumes she's made for her and her horses. Cindi loves to get into costume, and has brought horses outfitted in pink to show at Central Maine Dressage Association's Kur for the Cure show (a fundraiser for the Dempsey Center). She has also done demonstrations at the World of Horses, Maine Horse Association shows, and other events. She gave us some information on costume design, how to acclimate your horse to wearing a costume, and gave us a taste of her enthusiasm for how much fun it is to play dress-up with your horse!

Our High Point Intro ribbon went to Susan Pendleton, riding Castleberry Rio (Welsh Cob/Dutch Warmblood cross). High Point Junior ribbon went to Kailee Starr, riding Where's Waldo (Oldenburg). High Point Adult Amateur ribbon went to Maggie Roy, riding All that N' More (Dutch Warmblood). High Point Open ribbon went to Lauren Dallaire, riding The Big Ticket (Thoroughbred).

Maine Driving Club Arena Driving Trials

Maine Driving Club has bought into the New England ADT Championship. All you need to do is attend three events. Read on to learn about MDC's preparatory clinics.

2019 New England ADT Championship Director Mary Gray of Winning Spirits, an organization that supports carriage drivers with physical disabilities in the northeast, came up with a great idea of having a New England Arena Driving Championship. The idea was to get more participants to all the events. The scores from ADT events that are held in the New England area will be eligible for the end of the year awards. The 2019 events that we have dates for so far are: SNECDA ADT May 5, GMHA Spring ADT May 12, Pickpocket Farm ADT May 19, Maine Driving Club ADT June 8, Vermont Morgan Heritage ADT July 7, Pickpocket Farm ADT September 8, Pickpocket Farm ADT October 6, and Maine Driving Club ADT October 12.

Divisions awarded are Training & Preliminary VSE; Training, Preliminary and Intermediate Pony; and Training, Preliminary and Intermediate Horse.

If you would like to participate in this championship this year, all you need to do is participate in at least three events in the same Division. The scores of your best three events will be added and winners of the 2019 Divisions we be notified.

"Thank you in advance to all participants for a fantastic driving season, and I hope to see everyone at the Arena Driving Trials." ~Eric Wilking

Maine Driving Club plans to organize two clinics, two Arena Driving Trials and buy into the Arena Driving Trial Championship which encompasses competitors from ME, NH, VT, and MA who elect to enter their scores. The clinics are geared to help drivers who would like to try their hand at an Arena Driving Trial and want more information. The first was held April 24 at Seacoast Farm in Wales. Jenny Wells was the clinician.

"We all seemed to start in different places. My pony, who only goes off the farm once a year and never to an indoor, started on long lines even though she drives quietly. We worked on straightness and bending. First, Jenny fixed me and that did wonders for the pony. We then used the last few minutes hitched and applied the lesson to some trot work. The change in the pony from beginning to end was amazing. From now on I will steer with my bellybutton!" ~Paula

"As a beginner, I always thought doing a clinic by another trainer was showing my trainer I was not supporting her. But I was "told" by my trainer to do this clinic. A rider/ driver takes bits and pieces from every experience and applies them to their needs! And they listen to their trainer! Thank you, Hannah Poulin!" ~Elizabeth

"I recently started driving Seren with Hana Poulin, so this clinic was very helpful. I think it was a good experience for me and Seren to have so I could learn to control her better in the cart and how to drive an arena dressage test. I appreciated having Jenny Wells help me understand rein contact with a game, and how Seren would react to me having a strong rein with her. I think that will also help me with my riding. Overall, I think it was a really fun clinic. Thank you." ~Katie, junior driver

"This was my first lesson with Jenny, other than a rein board clinic I did with her when I was in the junior driving club. I decided to long-line, since I am just getting my pony going for the season. Jenny was able to help me with bending and keeping the pony on the bit through transitions, which was something I want to work on. We went over a dressage test a few times at the end, before she gave me some ground work ideas I could do at home. It was a fun and informative lesson." ~Anna

The second clinic will focus on driving a cones course. Robyn Cuffey is the clinician and, as long as the weather cooperates, we will meet at Windsor Fairgrounds on May 22. Come and join us. There will be plenty of help on hand, a cones course, as well as an obstacle for you to practice. Guaranteed to be the most fun thing you have done with your driving horse.

Maine Horse Association (MHA)

News, Notes, and Nickers

By Dollie Hutchins, MHA Administrator

It's here! The MHA show circuit opened its season with the American Saddlebred Association of Maine sponsored Long Horn Horse Show at the Hollis Equestrian Park, in Hollis on April 28. Even though we've had a wet, cold spring, the grounds were in tip-top condition with no mud, no puddles, and no dust, along with a beautifully groomed show ring and warm-up arena. Under the managerial leadership of Peggy Drummey, along with Show Secretary Regan Grant, Steward, Sylvia Corbett, and Announcer Dollie Hutchins, the show ran smoothly. Jo Hight held forth in center ring as the judge with Caroline "Rusty" Morrison as her ringmaster. Tari Hodgkins handled ribbons and trophies. Blue ribbon winners received glassware with a snacky treat tucked inside. Doing yeoman duty as gate keeper, especially since she had very recently had shoulder surgery, was Sonja Mooers. This capable crew greeted many first-time exhibitors, new combinations, riders moving up from academy divisions, and a number of riders moving up to the canter/lope divisions.

The largest and toughest division of the show was 11 and Over Pleasure. Relatively new to the MHA recognized shows, this division is for horse(pony)/rider combinations who are not competing in any type of competition requiring a canter or lope during the current season. It not only provides show experience for these riders, but serves a variety of needs including older juniors and adults who are just learning to ride; riders who need confidence before entering canter/lope classes; horses who need show experience or who haven't mastered the canter; those who want to show but no longer canter; and those who have trot/alternate gait horses. Since it is the combination that is restricted, riders may canter another horse and the horse may canter with another rider. This flexibility serves many exhibitors. However, this class's counterpart, 11 & Over Equitation, is only for riders who do not canter or lope in competition on any horse at any level.

The winner of the 11 and Over Pleasure class was Jenn Paratory and her horse Quecca. The excellent red belonged to Pam Lear with her family's Hidden Hollow Hot Shot. Showing just how competitive this division was, the championship belonged to Sophia Rowe and her family's AKA Wild Twist, with Emma Tomasula and her Stormy Quest earning the reserve championship. That's four different riders in the top spots in the pleasure division! In the 11 & Over Equitation division, Hannah LeRoy with her horse, I Walk The Line, topped Judge Hight's card with Isabella Rowe aboard AKA Wild Twist, second. The championship was the reverse with Isabella making the victory pass.

Among the new combinations this season, Charlestown Firestorm (owned by Nikki Tibbetts) and Dixie Szabo, who's moved into the canter divisions this season, made a stellar debut winning the Youth Activity Pleasure qualifier and championship as well as the Hunter Pleasure Equitation class. Another rider moving into the canter/lope divisions, Michelle Guillemette with her Quarter Horse, Investor's Diamond, proved he was a diamond as they won both the MHA Pleasure Western qualifier and championship.

The Costume Class was a huge crowd pleaser! It featured a knight (Kelsey King) and his dragon (mini horse, Jingles) and a flower bed (Hidden Hollow Hot Shot) with his bumble bee (Emma Grace Lear). The knight/dragon won the class with the bumble bee perched on her flower earning their share of cheers for the red ribbon. I would be amiss in not mentioning the first victory pass of the season with Ashlyn Bosse's winning the Open Grooming class with her Quarter Horse After Elegance. Judge Hight gave the grooming entries a very thorough inspection! With her signature no stirrups victory pass, Courtney Grant and her partner Jean Poole made the final pass from the ring as winners of the MHA Pleasure Horse English Championship.

These are but a few highlights of the Long Horn Show. By the time this article is read in early June, ASAM's Specially Designed Show (5/12); the new Maine Event Spring Premiere (5/17-19) and the FEA Black Diamond Jubilee (6/2) will have been held. If any exhibitors at these shows want me to mention their accomplishments as part of my articles, be sure to contact me! I'll be happy to do that. My contact info is on the MHA website, mainehorseassoc.com.

As you read this article, the MHA Hunter Circuit will be jumping into action (sorry, I love puns and plays on words) with the New England Jumper Association Classic I at Sassy Strides in Lisbon on June 9, followed by the Downeast Horse Congress Hunter ring on Saturday, June 15. The Pleasure Circuit will have the 40th Annual Downeast Horse Congress, June 14-16 at Skowhegan and the Arabian Horse Association of Maine's Autumnfest Show on June 28-30, also at Skowhegan launching everyone into summer. Prize lists for all MHA shows are available on the MHA website.

Dixie Szabo riding Nikki Tibbett's Charlestown Firestorm made her cantering debut winning all three of her classes: Youth Activity Pleasure and its Championship plus the Hunter Pleasure Seat Equitation class.

Ashlyn Bosse got her second season on the MHA circuit off to a great start winning Open Grooming and Youth Activity Showmanship with her partner After Elegance, owned by David Berry.

The Rowe family had a wonderful first show of the season. Isabella won the Walk-Trot Equitation Championship for riders 11 and over with AKA Wild Twist.

The Costume Class featured Flower Power/Save the Bees versus A Dragon Captured by a Knight. Both entries received lots of applause and chuckles with the blue being award to 'Knight' Kelsey King with her 'Dragon' Jingles. The red belonged to the 'Bumble Bee' Emma Grace Lear in her 'Flower Garden', aka Hidden Hollow Hot Shot.

Not to be outdone by his sisters Emerson Rowe was first and second in Lead Line Pleasure and Lead Line Equitation respectively, then returned to win the Lead Line Equitation Championship with AKA Wild Twist. He's picture here with trainer/instructor Sarah Lettre, Wright Way Stables.

Sophia Rowe took home the Walk-Trot Pleasure Championship for riders 11 and over with their Morgan AKA Wild Twist.

Maine Appaloosa Horse Club (MeApHC)

By Eleanor J. Roberts, MeApHC Publicity Chairperson

The 50th Anniversary Show, May 10-12, 2019 is currently underway as this article goes to print. The 50-year celebration for the Maine Appaloosa Horse Club along with the 50th Appaloosa "State Show" was made possible by the generosity of many, many people. For that we are extremely grateful and hope many of you who contributed today will be around for the 100th Anniversary Show to be held in 2069!

The show opened on Friday at 7:30am to pouring rain. This rain continued throughout the day and into the early evening. Following the halter, showmanship, hunter-in-hand, hunter over fences classes, and ½ the game classes, a beverage and cheese social was held in the Midway Exhibition hall.

On Saturday, the rain subsided, and the winds took the place of the wet to some low temperatures familiar only to those of us who live in the area or have shown at the Skowhegan Fairgrounds in the month of May.

The closing of time on Saturday was a late one. At 6:00pm, the show was halted for the annual Lobster/Chicken Dinner. This dinner was a family affair with retired Board of Directors and Executive Board members attending, former queens and the show manager's (for the past 25 plus years) family. Approximately 60 lobster/chicken dinners were served and enjoyed by all.

Following the dinner, the show resumed with the opening ceremony celebrating 50 years of the Maine Appaloosa Horse Club. The ceremony began with Theresa Kinney, the granddaughter of former executive board members Wes and Gwen Kinney, carrying the American Flag while the National Anthem was sung.

This was followed by a brief history, and a "Walk Down Memory Lane" given by Mike Grass, Jr. The judges were introduced along with the past queens who were present, and a gift was presented to Pat and Mike Grass for the years of dedicated service to the show management.

Once the 50th Anniversary ceremony was complete, the show resumed with the continuation of the day's schedule, finishing up the trail classes, Ranch Horse classes and the added money Versatility Class.

In the closing of this brief article The Maine Appaloosa Horse Club would like to thank everyone who made the 50th Anniversary Appaloosa State Show possible. These thanks go to the corporate sponsors, obviously, but they are also extended to the little people who gave what they could, be it a small amount of money or time, to see that this moment in time was capsulized for future generation. To the exhibitors from the youngest to the oldest and every age in between. To quote Mark Twain: "The first step to Success is getting Started," we at the Maine Appaloosa Horse Club have had 50 years of getting started. We hope to encourage horse enthusiasts of all ages and breeds to celebrate not only this year but future years as well.

We would like to express a heartfelt thanks to our arena sign sponsors, and to the Nestle Water Company for donating the Poland Springs Bottled Water to keep our exhibitors well hydrated throughout the 189 classes over the three-day event. Your generosity is much appreciated.

Riverview Farm Updates

By Jojean Keller

We had a visit from our favorite vet from Annabessacook recently. We were enthused to get the vaccinations and teeth checks done, as it's one more step toward summer! The horses were a bit less enthused, with reactions ranging from stoicism to displeasure to outright (but restrained) rebellion to the mouth intrusion of teeth checks.

The lesson and training programs are underway, after the loss of the plentiful amounts of mud encasing people, horses, and paddocks.

Another sign of spring are the numerous sleeping equine bodies adorning the paddocks. They're sound asleep and snoring softly. You wonder what they're dreaming about.

barns

The tack sale was a great success with an immense array of tack, clothes, blankets, saddles, and assorted items too numerous to mention! We raised a good amount to support Healing Hearts, as well as adding or subtracting to our personal stashes of horse gear.

We're all looking forward to warmer riding weather!

Healing Hearts Update

Healing Hearts' featured adopted horse of June is Jorge. Jorge is an older gentleman who is a bit timid, but loves his treats. He's been adopted by Brittany, and we are very fortunate that he is still in our Riverview horse community!
